PREFATORY NOTE

The five numbers of the Wandering whore appeared during 1660 and 1661. John Garfield, the publisher and probably the author, seized the opportunity presented by the licentiousness of the Restoration to exploit the reputation of Pietro Aretino's La puttante errante, notorious for its illustration of thirty-five erotic postures. Like most of the literature of this genre the Wandering whore takes a conversational form, two of the participants, Magdalena, the old bawd, and Julietta, a young whore, echoing Aretino's model. There are many other English examples. The crafty whore or the misery and iniquity of bawdy-houses, laid open in a dialogue between two subtle bawds (London, 1658), adapted from Aretino, provided both a precedent and a source (e.g. at Part II, pp. 11-12).

Following a tradition established as early as Robert Greene's 'coney-catching' pamphlets of the 1590s, the Wandering whore relates anecdotes of roguery and includes vignettes of lascivious practices, as usual ostensibly describing foreign manners — Julietta is Venetian — and excusing itself by the pretence of exposing them. (Note the exhortation on the title page, the advertisements and other apologia.) The work abounds in Rabelaisian humour, using puns and innuendo in describing sexual activities, its language is thick with contemporary military and naval metaphor.

As a result of the attempted suppression of prostitution at the Reformation, mentioned by Garfield, who cites John Stow's Survey of London (London, 1598), whoring in England was confined to backstreet, low-class establishments; on the continent courtesans might be accorded higher status. If the prices quoted here are accurate then the Wandering whore is somewhat up-market. Its list of streets noted for prostitution and brothels seems comprehensive (II, 9) and at least two of the women named were actually in the London trade. Damaris Page, 'the great bawd of the seamen' is mentioned by Pepys (Diary, vol. ix, ed. R. C. Latham and W. Matthews (London, 1976), p. 132 under 25 March 1668) and Madam Cresswell was convicted in November 1681 'after above thirty years practice of bawdry' (The Impartial protestant mercury No. 64, 29 November - 2 December, 1681. See also

The Poor-whores petition (London, 1668), and Tom Brown's Amusements serious and comical, ed. A. L. Hayward (London, 1927), p. 442).

The Wandering whore elicited several contemporary responses: it was ridiculed by Dr. John Heydon, the author of Advice to a daughter, writing as Eugenius Theodidactus, The ladies champion; a supposed Peter Aretine, Cardinal of Rome, also noticed it.

Few copies of the Wandering whore survive. Thomason collected numbers 2 to 4, which he dated 5, 12 and 19 December 1660; the Guildhall Library has copies of numbers 1 to 3; the Huntington holds numbers 1 and 5; and the Bodleian has at least number 5. Apparently the last issue was delayed by Garfield's imprisonment. In the Sixth part of the wandering whore revived (London, 1663, reputedly in the Bodleian but not traced) Eubulus (i.e., Garfield) says, 'I was committed to the Metropolitan Colledg of London [Newgate] upon a plea of trespass, for the non-payment of a hundred pound at the suit of one Gibson, where I continued 3 months before publishing the fifth part of the Wandering-whore'. For this see D. Foxon, 'Libertine literature in England 1660-1745', Book collector, XII (1963), 26-27, n. II.

The Wandering whore in its turn served as a model for later works including John Dunton's Nightwalker (1696-97). For information about the genre see Foxon's article cited above and Margaret Katanka, Women of the underworld: a study of prostitution and women criminals in popular literature 1600-1700 (MA essay, University of Birmingham, 1973). See also J. Frank, The Beginnings of the English newspaper, (Cambridge, Mass., 1961).

The Rota is grateful to Dr. Katanka for much of the substance of this note; help has also been given by Dr. Andrew Gordon Craig, Dr. Peter Thomas and Mr. Donald Pennington.

Issue no. 1 of the Wandering whore is reproduced by permission of the Librarian from a copy in the Guildhall Library, London, shelf-mark A. 1.1. no. 56; it has been cropped close, set in a larger sheet of paper and some of the running heads have been carefully drawn in. Issues 2 to 4 are reproduced from copies in the Thomason collection by permission of the Trustees of the British Library, shelf-marks E. 1053 (3, 8), E. 1054 (1). Issue no. 5 is reproduced by permission of the Huntington Library, San Marino, California, shelf-mark 145626; some of its pages have been cropped but the running titles and page numbers appear correctly in the Bodleian copy.

Courteous Reader,

Take notice, That the Publisher thereof hath not intended these Dialogues, for the encouragement of Vice and Profaneness, although some dishrel-lishing passages do occur, according to their language, which cannot be omitted;
but to discover the persons, who like Spi-

Farewel, and beware.

THE ## WANDRING WHORE.

Magdal. THis full appearance of our Companions sets me all on fire, to talk a little bawdery and drollery amongst them: First, to show the use of the Strummulo or Merkin. Secondly, The conveniency of Spunges. Thirdly, To have the Italian Padlock abolished. Fourthly, The Scorch-sput extirpated. Fifthly, The several Postures of Lancing, Backwards, Forwards, and every way discovered and introduced amongst us with more Freedom. Sixthly, all advantageous devices, subtilties, practices and Principles encouraged and strictly observed. Seventhly, The cure of the french pox and perillous infirmity of burning remedied, for encrease of the greater number of Clarify'd Wenchies. Eighthly, For providing a common stock and revenue for rabby Gowns, carnation Petticoats, holland smocks, silk stockings, rich garters and white shoes, for our wanderers. Ninthly, for bringing in all the profitable Venetian Customs and Courtizans actions amongst us. Tenthly, That what Bastards and By-blows fall out amongst us, may be preserved for fear of Bridewell, New-prison, or Tyburn, the two common Pit falls of careless observers.

Fulvesta. Most exquisite Mutton, we all submit to your voice, and words, as the infallible Oracle, and rule of Practice for us to walk by, informeth that for my own part, whatever you command me to demonstrate concerning our Customs in Venice, I shall readily acquaint you with them.

Magdalen. I doubt not your ability or confidence therein, but I must direct my intended discourse to Gusman our Hector, and confer with you afterwards, in the mean while give ear, with the rest of the Sisterhood, to our discourses and pleadings, and for you, Senior Gusman, I expect your judgement and advice upon the preceding observations, delivered in your hearing.

Gusman. I tell you plainly that ever since I was a Loose-liver or gamester in the School of Venus, I never read nor heard of ten such exact precepts proposed by any person, and wherein I can be serviceable, either in advice or actions, it shall be my study, and endeavor to accomplish your Intents and purposes, therefore for such as have lost their hair off their commodities: I do conclude it necessary for them to have a false strummulo or merkin, for such as fear the french Pox or perilous infirmity of burning, I advise not to do the business without sponges: the jealous Italian padlock is improper for persons of your profession: the scotch spur there is no need of amongst you, being forward enough without them: the several postures are necessary, because all men do not affect one and the same riding; And for Encouragements amongst us, luxurious feeding, lascivious actions, wanton gestures, fine and clean Linen, Holland Smocks, with good outsides are the chiefest provocatives in those practises: the french Pox is nothing amongst Friends, therefore No Cure, no Money, shall have have their Custom, the provision for tempting habits, I like well, with the Venetian Curtezans practises, especially in this point, where they take care to educate all Bastards, both Priests, Merchants and peasants, with our enquiry after the father, for I fancy not the commencement in Bridewel or Newgate, for such venial offences, which in former days have been tolerated by our Predecessors, and at this day by our neighbors.

Magdalen How, tolerated by our Predecessors? I never heard that before, what Author did you finde that intelligence in? I must deal plainly with you, I cannot beleieve any such thing remains upon Record.

Gusman. I will quickly convince you of your error, or ignorance, for in the 337 page of Londinopolis, you may read how the Bordel or Stew-houses were privileged for the repair of incortinent men & women, by the supream Governors, wherein is observable these orders amongst the Stew holders: That no single woman should take mony of any man for lying with her, except she lay with him all night till the morrow: That no Stew-holder should keep a single woman in his house, that had the perilous infirmity of burning, with diverse others: where note, there was the Clink for the imprisoning such as abused those houses, and neer adjoining, a place peculiar to them called the single-womans church-yard, wherein they were buried, if they did not repent of their sinful life: And these allowed houses, had these several signs painted on the fronts of their walls towards the Thames, a Bores-head, the Cross-keyes, the Gun, the Castle, the Crane, Cardinals Hat, the Bell, the Swan &c.

Magdalen. Senior Gusman, our beloved Friend, and valiant Hector, you are for punctual in your observations, that I must, and do believe you, and therefore desire against our next meeting, that such of their orders as are omitted, may be revived and rehearsed amongst us, for the satisfaction of these Gentlewomen, and what may be deemed profitable amongst us, practised, resolving from the Poulterers wives cries, Nomony, no Cony; a Cunny being the dearest piece of flesh in the whole world, witness Priss Fotheringhams Chuck-office, where upon fight thereof, French Dollars, Spanish Pistols, English Half-crowns are as plentifully pour'd in, as the Rhenish wine was into the Dutch wenches two holes till she roar'd again, as she was showing tricks upon her head with naked buttocks and spread legs in a round ring, like those at wrestling near the Half-crown-chuck-office, call'd Sack-a-new-berries six windmills.

Gusman. I assure you she that had the half Crowns chucked into her Comodity, had lesser harm than the Rhenish wine Wench, for its of a smarting and searcing quality, differing from that Sack was poured in on one side by such Cullies as Priss Fotheringhams, and sack't out on the other, which is a new fashioned Cup for roaring boyes to drink in.

Magdalen. That was a mad trick more then ever I see played or heard of, and yet I have seen many, amongst which I remember this one that was committed upon one of my familiar acquaintance, who was so deeply drunk with Sack, Claret, Beer, Ale and Tobacco; that they took her and layed her belly naked upon a Table, like as if she had been layed out for buryal, turning, or sticking a Candle in her Comodity, and drinking drinking healths over the dead drunk party, til the mercileſſ Candle fir'd her Fur-buſh quire away, the flame whereof was quickly ſnared by drawing a codpiece engine, and giving her two or three Coolers.

Gufman. One of the maideſt tricks, that ever I ſaw acted, was this (but not in a drunken humor, as ſuch are when they drink ſtraight back, thorough our Madams Smocks till they drop again) upon a handſome neat Clean ſkin'd Girl that was terribly pepper'd with herds of Crablice (as viſible in her tayl as Cloves in a gammon of Bacon) whoſe torment was ſo exceeding great, that an intimate Friend of hers diſcovered her diſtemper, and with much perſwaſions and intreaties made her hearken to the meanes and remedies following; whereupon he took her and ty'd her up naked at the bods feet by the middle like a monkey, and lighting a pipe of Tobacco gave thoſe many-tooted vermin (ariſing from inbred Lechery) ſuch a rout at her Cinque ports, by thruſting in the ſmall end of his pipe into one hole, then into the other, blowing the ſmoke at the other end of his Pipe, that they never durſt venture to inhabit thoſe Continents ſince. But to add to this frolick, the ſnoke occaſioned ſuch a ſquirt, that the heat and fury thereof ſcalded this Gentlemans beard cleer away from his chin, far worſe then hot Quodlins; ſince which miſchance he could never endure peeping in wenches Arſeholes, leſt the next bout, they ſhould piſſ his eyes out.

Magdalen. If there is a piece of Roguery in the world, thou haſt it to a hunds bredth, which is juſt the ſame proportion at Narrow-bridg, where ſo many paſſengers croud and thruſt to enter one after another.

Gufman

Gusman. That's the place where 1500 pike-men were routed and put to the worst on't, the newes where-of came of a truth from Dunkirk: But what's your usual way to delude and entice yong men, and coakes them of their mony and affections.

MagdaLEN. Here's none but are old beaten Soldiers at that sport, and as easy with them as pissing backwards, and that is onely drying their flowers to powder, and then giving it in posset Drinke, and it hits effectually; another way is to take the largest and soundest Nutmeg ty'd in a string, and thrust up to be soundly soak't and pickl'd in their Whib-bob for 3 or 4 nights together, which being grated into a Cup of Ale with a toast, intoxicates the beautiful to doat on the most deformed; but this must be spoken under the Rose, for fear the too frequent prating hereof should bring us to deserved punishment for unlawful practises.

Gusman. Methinks Magdalena you have tyr'd me out of breath, pray take to task Iulieta the most beautiful piece in City, Court, or Country, for were she not so, she were not fit to let her loving Kindness come down so often; I will not say (in the pernicious gibberish of deformed Cullender fac'd, rubify'd and carbuncled faces) be a whore, for Whores are ever the pleasantest and handsomest, if not wholsomest.

MagdaLEN. Tis no great matter for wholsom: Mony's good for the wholsom's what say you Iulieta, will you be free to be a whore under me, I will warrant you Customers, and constant Comrades of gold and silver?
Iulieta. I am unwilling to be a whore under you, but under an able and sufficient man, I am, and ever was willing.

Magdalena

The VVandering whore. 9

Magdalen. I am glad to hear you find a quibbling Critick, you'll fit my purpose, and serve for your own profit; I know you know as well where to stick a prick to make flesh swell, as e're a Butcher taught by baudy Priapus: I would fain know the fashion of the Italian Padlock, which makes so many honest women against their wills, and remit our further discourse to the next meeting.

Fulietta. The Italian Padlock, are made of Iron, Steel and silver, gilt over, sometimes covered with Plush or Velvet, which goes quite round their Lips, a thin plate going between their Legs like a Cullinder or Grate to piss thorough, over their Whib-bobs the Lock hangs fastned under their smocks near the groin of the back, and never opened but when her husband hath a mind to play a game at Tick-tack, as Vulcan did with Venus.

Francion. 'Tis not the first time I have had a Girl of your chusing, 'fayth, let me give her hansel, you know I am a very handsom-body'd man in the face, and let her try whether an Italian or a French P—— is longest, and best pleasing.

Magdalen. Seintor Gusman, conduct them into my Bed-chamber, furnish them with good Wine and Tobacco, for I know Ju. will smoke a pipe, and then tois his Pike, see they want no attendance nor a Chamber-pot, that ~~while~~ the one pisses, the other my hold the Pot.

Gusman. An excellent way to raise lechery: I will attend my Customers, and mind my trade.

Magdalen. Dear Sisters, I must now direct my present thoughts and words to your purposes, and then B conclude conclude till our next opportunity of meeting, wherein you shall be more peculiarly concern'd then at this present: My advice therefore to you (that keep Dancing-Schools) to keep handfom likely itrapping Wenches that will throw their Legs over mens heads, and show all for nothing, always in readines, and good clothes on their backs, to have the better price for their Commodities: For you that wander through Cheap- side, the old Exchange, Cornhil, and Leaden hall, street, let your rendezvouz be sometime at Mrs. Adams, in Long-Ally, sometime at the Rafe in Maorfields, at Mrs.

Fones's; but use not that custome of picking mens pocket-ers whilst they are groping your plackets too often; and if you are in the road towards Flout-street, Mrs.
Simpson in Ram-Ally will furnish you with fit rooms to do the businss in. I know for your part Priss, you have much Custom, and for Wenches and good neighbors continual supply from the White-Cross, the London- prentice, the Ship, with the rest of the row; for you Mrs.
Creswel at the upper end of Maorfields in a back Ally, I hear you admit of very few but Citizens, and Citizens wives, whose Pictures you keep in readines for your best Customers to chuse on, and trade with, and you Doctor Sharllys wife in Garden-allies in St. Thomas's, you ought not to be a whore and baud to your own daughter, and preservor and interests to Trappances, Mrs. Curtis, and Bessy Lawrence in Barbaryn, wheel Court without Bishop-gate, and Su. Leming, and Bessy Orange, and Alice Spylman at Dang-wharf, will do the businss at home, paying two shillings a pint for sack: for the rest of the Auditory, if such wine as

Bell-Ringer with a plaister'd Picture will content you, your mony's as good as any others there, and for this time I bid you all adieu.

Gusman. Magdalena, Mounfieur Francion desir'd to speak with you as soon as you had dispatcht your female society, I stood pimping and peeping at their door, till I heard the bargain driven betwixt them, and Julietta to enhance the price of her Comodity, perswaded him no man-kinde had either seen or felt her ware since her arrival in England, he gave her forty shillings, and a gold ring beset with diamonds, before they went to't; for she told him, for whores and Hackney Jades, their hire must be payd before striding them, so that by that time his reckoning is payd for, the joyes in his pocket will leave quarrelling.

Magdalen. If he cannot pay his Reckoning without scoring, I must have one of his Gold-Rings; Watch, or Cloak as a pledge for his Reckoning, for I will not trust him much longer then Julietta, with whom I would speak ere I see him, therefore call her hither, for should she care a T— for him now she has got his mony; she would be thought too common; besides, if another gallant Cully should step in, she must be ready to hold forth to him also; but she must lay aside her mony and trust to no pockets or purse, but that which is cut between her Legs.

Gusman. Ile call her instantly, Ho, Ho, here she comes without calling or sending for, and sav'd the messenger (not hangman) a labor.

Magdalen. You look very merry upon't Ju, surely you have been well payd, and pleased with your recreation.

Fulietta. Were such recreation for to hold but one twelve-month together, I would not change my occupation, to be the richest Common-councils man's wife in London.

Magdalen. If the trade were as constant and certain, as it is profitable, there would fewer whores go to the Berbadoes and Virginia, and the tribe lesser in New-prison, Bridewel, Compter, and New-gate, where nothing but poverty and the non-payment of Keepers fees, detains them for the most part from their enlargement; but how lik't you the Combate upon your back and belly with Francion?

Fulietta. Passing well, for he pass't and repass't very pleasantly, and was mighty tender of me; for lest he should put me to too much pain, or endanger beating the bottom of my belly-out, he wrapt an Ell of Holland neer the root of his P— but I snatch't it off, and cool'd his courage quickly.

Magdalen. By Mars, Vulcan, Venus, and Priapus, it was nobly done, but did you piss presently after your work was over, to prevent his getting you with Childe, for he could not chuse but do it with a good will, on conceit of getting your Maiden-head.

Fulietta. My Maiden-head? He that think's I had my Maiden head after thirteen, has had a knock in the Cradle, and merits cutting of the Simples, but I settled on the Chamber-pot as soon as ever he was off, till I made it whurra, and roar like the Tyde at London-Bridge, to the endangering the breaking of my very Twailling-strings with straining backwards; for I know no better way or remedy more safe then pissing presently to prevent the French Pox, Gonorrhoea, the perilous infirmity of Burning , or getting with Childe, which is the approved maxim amongst Venetian Courtiers and Curtezana's.

Magdalen. I remember two lusty, strapping, bouncing Girles , whose names were Leda and Lycanium, each of them married to a bed-full of old bones , with which they could not be satisfi'd , so that Leda counterfeits her self sick , the old dotard presses her to know her distemper, which she told him was occasioned for want of due benevolence , he knowing his insufficiency and impotency, grants her desires , and by the help of a well-trap'd Doctor, was perfectly cured. Lycanium went more cunningly to work , for watching her opportunity upon a false pretence, seduced and deluded a lusty ruddy coloured shepherd into the middle of a wood , where catching hold of his trap-stick , she, (when she saw him stiff and strong, and itching to be at her,) taught the unskilful rustick to loose his maiden-head by guiding him to her fancy.

Falsitta. I knew a person of great beauty and quality, who whilst she was playing a game at Whisk or Pickquet with her husband, a Gentleman got her upon his knee, and plaid a game at Tick-tack, on one side of the table before her husbands face, without being discovered.

Magdalen. If that work be done with a good will, 'tis as easy to dispatch it, during an Exchange time, as an East India Voyage, as many a Merchant have found to their sorrow , yet such as blow their horns on that point deserve pointing at, and such as put them in their pockets, deserve pitying.

14 The Wandring whore.

Francis. Magdalena send in your Bill of Charges, and I will pay the reckoning.

Magdalen. Are they ready Gusman? If not write them o instantly.

WANDRING WHORE.

Gusman. HAVE you any work for the Coopers daughters in Katherine-wheel Alley in Bishopsgate-street, they cure the Priapismus, Satyriasis, and Stanaing-Ague infallibly, with an Universal Medicine, dancing Bobb ix-jo, stark naked into the bargain ; In their absence (which is seldom) Betty Lawrence, their neighbor and Sister in iniquity, will serve the Cure, suffering you to whip the skin off her buttocks, as Wats the Hosier (besides two others) did, onely paying her Crowns apiece for her patience and punishment. All such as are too hot in the Cod-piece, may have right-cooling Snow-water at the New-house without the Postern by Moor-gate, the vertues whereof are choice and singular, in so much that it cures any of the above-mentioned distempers, if you take a dose morning and evening after this manner.

Had this Receipt the vertue and quality of curing the French-pox, Running of the Reins, filthy corrupt constitutions in the bodyes of our society, it might be put down and received by them for the true Aqua Mirabilis, with which, should Thom. Lawton in Petty-France but wash his face with before a Looking-glass. he might read the bairnfulness of his crimes imprinted in his forehead, if he did not expect to see old Nicks picture there instead of his own: First, for deceiving Mr. Hodgson an honest man and lawful husband of an unchaste wife: secondly, for tempting her to be a whore with him, when there is no question but she was so with others, for all she cry'd out O! I love that pretty black Rogues face of thine, who for her fault must be enrolled with our society, of whom you may read a perfect List of names, and Habitations.

Francion. Many of these are new Madams to me, but old Traders no question with others, I le visit their Quarters one after another, though I me clapp't three times over with the Pox, and so become a Gentleman, but hear me Seignior Gusman, do'st know Mrs. G—neer the Coffee-house in the Postern by More-gate? there's a tearing Girl with Silver-lace upon her Petticoat a Quarters bredth, with Lemmon-colour'd Ribbins a-la-mode-france, with Pendants in her cares, neck-lace of counterfeir pearl, and dress't with a Caul in her hair.

Gusman Know her! There's scarce a Baudy-house, whore, or Hector in London but I either know of them, or will know them, by such as keep them Company, one of them told me, thar after G—had faln to decay in in his own trade, his wife set up her's by opening her fore doores, and lying backwards, for sufferance where-of this Cornudo had two shillings and six-pence a time payed by his wife, who handled the theoricke and practick part with such free will that by her Report her husband received seven teen Half-crowns for his part in one day, besides some over-plus Knocks she never reckoned to him.

Francion. Had I known this story before-hand, I would never have ventur'd in her hor Low-country, though she would have payd me for the drudgery; for, the Cat-ey'd Cullinder-fac'd Gipsy is onely pleasing to the eye in her trick't-up bravery & a distance, and roughs in'd in her Embraces as the Sun-burnt Portugall: there's the Governes of the Chuck Office has been far handsomer, till Twister had her under his Cure of the Pox: I was told by one Hurft a Farrier by Finsbury and diverse others, that Twister stood upon her head with naked breech & belly whilst four Cully-rumpers chuck't in sixteen Half-crowns into her Comodity: I fear the foul disease is too deeply rooted in her rotten husband, (as appears by his staff since he was at Snifield,) that he will shortly be put in the Bill of Mortality: to prevent which, I advise him to enter Kings-land Hospiral, and there make his last Will and Testament, leaving the Estate he hath got by Tools, Whores, and Rogues, to some of his own profession.

Gusman. It's a true Proverb, (and as often seen verified amongst us, as upon any other persons in the world,) that ill-gotten Goods never prosper, and though his gettings have been inordinate, his Expences have over-ballanc'd them, so that his estate will quickly quickly be numbred, and as suddenly distributed : If you fancy variety of faces, Monsieur Francion, visit the Cherery-garden, Harton-wall, Blomesbury, Deury-lane, Dog and Birch-yard, Fleet-lane, Turnball-street, Rosemary-lane, long Acre, Lincolns-in-fields & Spittle-fields, Wheeler-street, Mobb-lane, Smock-ally, the Row at the six Windmills, Petticoat-lane, Dunnings-ally, Long-ally, More-fields, Cheap-side, Cornhill, Leaden-hall-street, &c. Where when you meet with a complete lusty Girl to your minde, say with the witty wanton Poet ;

*Let me thy naked parts feel without light
And with sweet sports protract the pleasing night.*

Francion. I have rang'd thorough most of those quarters already for a fresh C—— for,

*Love hath wings, and loves to range,
And I love those that love to change.*

Therefore if thou canst do the business, here's a Crown, an Angel, a Pound, nay, Five pounds for a pure untoucht Maiden-head : for I am even surfeited with Citizens wives, who are eager after S——

Gusman. I can do the feat for you, paying well before-hand, onely advising with Magdalena a little, therefore whether will you have a black, brown, flaxen, tall, short, slender, thick, fat, or lean wench to try your valor on ?

Francion. I won't have her clarifi'd or pockifi but a pure maid, such as was py d by her Mr. the B—— in the Truckle-bed, nor such as In bred Spend-all in Throok:erton-street, trades with neer the Chuck-

Office; (which he should be at Church,) with the usurers walk, nor playing at Bobb-cherry with his maid the Tell-tale, nor such a one as old Salmon's maid, who whilst her Mr. wooed to emend her sort, she stood upon her guard, and called Corporal, bidding him stand off with a Pox of his P—— in his hand

Magdalena. Thou hast been pretty punctual in thy observations as to the names, persons, and places where our society and retinue resort, but there are other remarkable persons; such as your running-Bauds, Kid-Nappers, your he and she-Shop-lifters, and your foylers, who are forgotten amongst us; there's old Damrose Page has got many a pound by it, therefore let us not loose the benefit of their Acquaintance, we may chance to buyld a Hospital; at our own proper cost and charges, as well as the did Houses in Radcliff-high-way.

Gusman. That I have ready for you already, which I shall put in rank and file against our next meeting: For by the advice of one of their own society, I took a rough draught of them, from the Collectors List for Pole-mony about Dog and Bitch-yard, Turnbull-street, Cress-lane, with other their Rendezvouzes; and you shall not fail of them, such as Will, and Bess Cox, Bess Norgate, Amy Butler, Peter Goodjeway, and Thom. Orrel, with divers others of whom you shall shortly hear more in the strange and true Conference between Damrose Page and Priss Fotheringham during their Imprisonment in Newgate, &c. With the manner of Hammonds erecting of the Prick-Office at the Last and Lyon in East-smith-field. It will be very proper to have an additional List of the names, of our deepest Pyemen and decayed Occupiers, whose names may stand upon record amongst us, as the Benefactors in St. Bartholemews Hospital, as good Examples for others. But loose not an opportunity which is now offered in the presence of your constant Cully, and deep Pyeman Francian: His teeth, water for a new face, money and Cunny are good Commodities.

Magdalena. Show him into a convenient Room, and end in Mrs. Cupid, the Dutch whore, fair Rosamond, Sugar C — who are all as good Maids as any use to be after thirteen amongst us, and let him make his own choice, and I will have my own Price, be diligent in your attendance, carrying Wine and Tobacco, whether they call or no, come he must pay for it, trading's dead and little, make large improvement on't when tis offered.

Gusman. Should we once leave our old Custome of Chearing, our best (as well as worst) Cullies, we must leave off to live, but hang Conscience and honesty, 'tis absurd policy, dishonest actions are proper with other Persons, in other places, and for our profit, dishonesty with Riches is honesty, honesty with Poverty is dishonesty, all people know that to be as true as that St. George killed the Dragon: they must therefore finde it, if not expect it, for we have devices and subtilties far exceeding the Mountebanks Orbiton or Balsam, that were our Girles C — as large as Satchel C — Greens wife who has both holes broken into one, we can reduce those preternatural defects, to their Pristine posture and constitution.

Gusman. O Yes! O Yes! O Yes! Any man or woman, in City or in Country, that will see an Ugly she-monster of deformed shape, impudent and brazen-fac't carriage, uncivil behaviour, filthy constitutions, and preternatural disposition in her body, grinds Ginger in her a---hole betwixt her buttocks, and by that means hath weakned the retentive faculty in her posteriors, to the p — and — for her flesh stocks, Let all such as fear not the losing of their Eye-sight, come put in their nose, as Chancers twelve Fryers did at the dividing of a fart amongst them, and they may have it of a fluttish wench at the sign of, Have you any wood to cleave, &c.

plackets more then Pockers to plague the jade, unless she enters her name amongst us; come Fulietta, what observations were omitted concerning your venetian practises in our first days discourse, deliver me and this auditory a true and briet account.

Fulietta. Our rules amongst us, are with much strictness observed, for paying an annual tribute to the Senate, we have as secure protection as any people in the Dukedom of Venice, no Tax or imposition exceeding ours in quantity, and what children are got in Bawdery amongst us, are educated at their charge, if you are but minded to go to a certain stately buylding, where is a grate, and one continually there placed to receive it in, the Priests have a place peculiar to themselves, for what Brats they get are carried else where, where on the outside of the wall, hangs a rope with a basket at the end on't, where they are drawn up in a basket, if you ring the Bell, which hangs close by: if any Merchant, Gentleman or others, leave his slipper at the door, whilst he is with us, none dares to enter amongst us, for we have our Russians (such as your Hectors) that will tear the nations, this Custom is ordinary, as drinking in Ale-houses and Taverns: then in our private rooms, we have the picture of the Italian padlock, Peter Aretines postures curiously painted, with several beautiful pictures stark-naked (not such Landskips as P — in C — at Priss Fotheringhams) one holding a Chamber-pot betwixt her Legs, another striving might and main to enlarge the Orifice of her Mysterium magnum that unfathomed bottom, a third laughing at the large pair of cheeks and haunches she hath got, a fourth pointing at one that hath lost the hair off off her Whib-bob, and instead thereof hath a huge black beard for her Strumulo or merkin, and if any of our wanton Girles catch the Neaploitan disease, 'tis a constant custom to send them to the Hospitals appointed where they are clarified before they enter upon any new engagement by our Chyrurgons,

Magdalena. Your account is very concise and complete, I hear Francion call, (after his knocking) 'tis surely for the Reckoning.

Francion There's ten pieces to clear all charges and expences, does it please old Matron?

Magdalena. Most noble Francion, most heartily welcom, the most welcome guest in the whole world, what can be grasp'd within my power, shall truckle at your command, for I am your devoted servant.

Fulsiesta. Ah marry Sisters! this is none of your pitiful Sneakesbyes and Raskalls that will offer a sturdy C—but eighteen pence or two shillings, and repent of the business afterwards

Gusman. He came in season, his money is in season. Quod omnium rerum est primum, I onely with the next days account may end, with so welcome a Conclusion as this.

Second Days Action.

Fulietta. Come (sweet heart) wilt thou do-a-little,
the fist's come on me now, I will show thee a pure pair of naked breasts, smooth Buttocks, Lovely and ivory thighs whiter than untrod Snow, with the best red-lip't C—in Christendom, such as Europa never showed Jupiter, Orithya Boreas, nor Helena Theſeus, when they cornu-ted their husbands, nor at the Wraſtling amongſt the naked Roman virgins.

Francion. You are huge merry me-thinks Fulietta, the news and ſight whereof would tempt a ſaint, efpecially ſuch a one as I am, therefore lye down dear heart and make my P—riſe, diſcloſe thy curled, ſilvercolour'd turn-pikes and perfum'd Cabinet lyes in thy vally ſweeter than Violets; then lead me with thy ivory fingers to it's fancy, where I will enter it's Port with a full ſpring tyde between thy bum's riding ſafe at Anchor within thy harbour.

Fulietta. I am prepar'd to give you entrance with all your burden, (without ſearching you with Custom-house Officer's) you need no other Transire but my permission.

The VVandering whore.

Francion. I like thy free and kind reception, although the enjoyment thereof abate my affection thereunto, then have at all my deer,—I've done the business with discretion, and spilt my Posset on thy beard and in thy belly, with a total rout to P—and stones.

Julietta. I had rather heard thee saying, I will kill thee with this kindness, oh! how sweet would be the death, as once a seeming-holy sister said when a long t—Chyrurgion made her trump and trump again and again.

Francion. That makes me think of Baudy Marshall's verses.

*Mentula longa placet, magna implet, parva titillat,
Sic facit officium mentula quaque suum.*

And this pleasant Frolick of a wanton fancy,

O bone Girdruræ, quam nocte tu bene ludis Quoties enim ego trudo retrudis.

O deer Girdruræ, how sweetly in the night—
Thou sport'st with me, when we together fight.

Julietta. I know what pleases me best, and which displeases me most, for I am not like the old E—of E—C—unpentrable, or troubl'd with a narrow passage, but like to Mal. Savory, who sitting in a publick passage in a very good habit and rich apparel about twilight, lay lamenting the loss of her husband she never had, (though children several,) A kind hearted Gentleman passing by, with little importunity treated her into a Tavern where drinking two or three pints of Canary, she related her distresses and distractions with such cunning and counterfeit sighes and teares, that he became a great admirer of her speeches, and condoler of her pretended miseries : But the night drawing on, she press'd with importunity to be gone, saying 'twas not usual for her to be out at eight of the Clock: the Gentleman drawes a very fair and large Watch, telling and showing her it was not Seven, calling for more Sack, smuggling, groping and hugging her between his arms and legges, till she very expertly got it out of his pocket without present discovery, and then renew'd her suit with much importunity to depart; not so, said he, for I know your want is onely a Chamber-pot, which I will call for, and you shall, Dear Madam, make use of, which being called for, was accordingly brought up by the Drawer, and carried by her into another room, and made use of, in which interval she thrust both Watch, Key, and string into her Commodity, making her return into the room, drinking Sack in a plentiful manner, continued in that way so long, that going to enquire for his Watch, it was non est inventus whereat he was somewhat astonish'd and amazed, crying sweet heart thou hast got my Watch. I beseech you dear Sir, replyed this rammish whore, harbour no such thought of me, nor take me for any such person, rather send for some honest woman or women, and search me stark-naked from top-to-toe, which was accordingly done, but the cheat undiscovered, whereat (as he could not chuse) he wondered, saying for the abuse was done her, he would call for a pottle more and give it her in part of Satisfaction, which was accordingly brought up, but before 'twas drunk out, anall arum betrayed all, going going Dub-a-Dub-a in her C — at nine of the clock, which so affrighted this female, she confess't her fault, fearing the devil (who hath right to them all) were about to take possession.

Francion. I remember how Fone Harman a running baud, and Nan Robinson a common whore, served a Sea Captain as he walked thorough Pye-corner neer Smith-field, where spying him all alone with a large load of mony under his arm; they drew up close to him, and ask't if he would give or take, and pray good Sir what a clock is't, how far do you go this way? if you won't give us a pint of wine, we have a pint at your service, for I take you to be my Countryman, with such stuff as this, they got him into a pimping-house, telling them they had got a rum-cully, who as soon as he was entred a room he threw down his bagg, and burden of 50 l. upon the Table before them, drinking Sack very merrily and feeling the whores whibb-bobs one after the other, till they drove a bargain to play at heave-and-shove, as if't had been on ship-board, the running baud standing Centinel and door-keeper to secure them in their sporting from apprehension and interruption; whereupon he unhasp't his breeches, took up her petticoates, smock and all, falling on to board this pinnace, which the baud seeing in their postures of naked leggs and bare breeches, she cover'd them over with her apron, pretending an act of modesty; whilst she steales up to the Table, up with the bag, leaving them close at their merriment, clearing way with the Summa totalis, leaving him a C—for his Coin, neither of which he ever fingered after.

The VVandering whore.

Julietta. There's my sister Frank Poulter (alias Ulls) who divid, and pickt by her own acknowledgment, nine pieces of Gold out of a Cullies pocket at one clap, a bagg of Silver as long as her arm (almost) at another clap, and for silver Hat-bands, Gold-rings, Watches or Rings in your Bandstrings she ha's them infallibly, if you have them about you, therefore beware of your Pick-pocket Whores, and make much of the honest Whores.

Francien. Well, since we have entred upon these discourtesies, bid Gusman bring up a Quart of Sack with a dish of Anchovas, and then wee'l proceed further, and I'll tell you how Cock Chambers lately served a puny Brewers Clark as he was wandering in the fields for that purpose: she cast her eyes upon him, he, back towards her, she speaks to him he accepts of her, and into a house (fit for their purpose neer the Windmills) they entred (with Dick Cartwright her friend and Hector, after her three husbands who are now living) so that whilst he was pying her, she pickt six Pounds in a canvase bagg out of his pocket, leaving him under pretence of pissing, a pledge for the reckoning, returning to her constant rendezvouz over against Moorgate, where she sold out the mony upon her scarte, giving her piti-ful Dick a new band (a halter had been more deserved) and a pair of new shoes for his paines in the busi-ness, of whose abode, what she is, whither she goes, or where he may light of her, this ignorant Puppy knows no-thing, but might of the publisher hercof.

Julietta. Mall. Tremain who stood three market dayes in the Pillory, and lay in New-gate for pick-ing of pockets, pockets, and Trappanning of Merchants, subtrilly served a Drapers man in Pauls-church yard, for after his pick'ing up monies on a Saturday night, she pick't him up in Cheapside, getting him into the Star-tavern (a fit house for such stories) who whil't he was handing his P—to her Placket, she got both her hands in his pockets, and after he had done the business she catch't him, grasp't him and held up her tayl, bidding him prethee love stay-a-little, stay-a-little longer, for her loving kindness was coming towards him, and by that means foyl'd his cloy of above ten pounds, afterwards giving him a Cockle de-moy for his mony, and a slip for the reckoning: then there was a drunken Mariner who had received Threescore-pounds of the Owners of a Ship for buying a Cable and Anchor, which was lost in Mal. Crumwells bottom as he was sayling between Temple-bar and Ald-gate, to his perpetual ruine and his whole family; as for your pitiful poor whores, such as Biss Whistle Betty Blane, Black Betty, Nan Taylor, Mal. Kefe, &c. who are seldom out of the Marsbals mens Quire, y<sup>e</sup> Bridewel, if they are pick't up at night-time, they tnot t<sup>k</sup> of drinking, but going into a corner of some b<sup>e</sup> t<sup>e</sup> Ale, where they will be more certain (be you drunk or sober) of picking your pockets, then you shall be of finding or putting a finger in their plackets.

Francion. Come speak here Gusman, bring up more Wine and Tobacco, bid Magdalena appear before us, if she is not over-bu<sup>y</sup> at her old trade, and bring in Mrs Glover, that I m<sup>y</sup> know whether her pitiful, shifting, vapouring husband got the palsy and trembling ling throughout his joynts with over-much drinking, or too much knocking, and let Mrs. Snow be one of us (his neighbor, who keeps a couple of handsome hackney-jades at the Postern gate) provided she hath layn-in the full time of her By blow she had lately by a swaggerer since the decease of her husband, and that By-blow be put out to nurse.

Gusman. I hav't in my hand Monsieur, but for Magdalena she's hard put to't to please a yong Merchant in L—street, who will not be contented with doing the business, but will have half a dozen Girls stand stark naked round about a Table whilst he lyes snarling underneath as if he would bite off their whibb-bobs, and eat them for his pains; another will needs shite in one of our wenches mouth's (which is odd lechery) another who has brought rods in his pockets for that purpose, will needs be whip't to raise lechery and cause a standing P— which has no understanding at all, and would quickly cool my courage; a fourth would fayn be bugging some of our wenches, if the Matron could get their consent, but had rather be dealing with smooth-fac'd Prentices.

Fulvetta What unseen and unheard off Monsters are here amongst you in England, nay, in London all of them, well might Flora Laurentia, Leana, and Faula be annoz'd among the Romans for down-right occupying, but these are such wretched persons, guilty of such wicked Actions, they are not fit to be nominated, they are surely old Devils, and yong Saints.

Gusman. They are such as can pay any price for to live their wickedness and appetites and for the persons sons they have to deal with, they'l endure any annoyances, punishments or extremities to get money by'r, in regard of their poverty, which together with idleness, makes so many whores and dishonest women amongst us.

Fulietta. I must deal ingeniously with you, since I saw the last days List, I admire how or which way, so many of the society are maintained by their Lechery, and yet they are but a handful in comparison of those are yet to enter themselves amongst us.

Gusman. I do not think that all my leaves and pages in folio, are able to contain them, especially if the decayed Occupiers, and Deep Pyemen should be put down; in which particular there is no great difficulty.

Fulietta. If all their actions, names and places of abode were registred, they could not be read over in Centuries of yeers, as for example, how Sn. Leming had Tabbies, Taffaties, Scarfes, &c. from out Ben. Rosses Cod-piece at the white-horse in Pater-noster-row, without paying for them, onely he had a little pying, and help't to a fresh bit in a time of need, and now and then a pint bottle of Sack without paying for; How Butterfield the Wood-monger drunk out two Loads of Faggots at Betty Lawrences; and lastly, how the Rules of the Chuck-office are onely profitable to Whores, Hectors and Trappanners. &c.

Francion. Well, I finde no Motions to a second Rancounter with you, Fulietta, therefore for this time let the Reckoning be plac't upon account, tell our next days meeting, and I will stay to hear read the additional List to this.

SOME libidinous wretches out of despight to the design of the Publisher hereof, and affection to the wicked Actors, concerned in the List, have censured, condemned, insinuated, and suggested the intent hereof to be for propagating of whoring, and tempting Customers to go amongst them, instead of destroying them: This the world may be assur'd of, that instead thereof, some of them like rats have remov'd for fear of ruine, others have chang'd their names, some thereby have been denied Licences and thrust out of their parishes, others have profered gratuities to be obliterated: so that I say from Whores, Harlots, and Varlets, good Lord deliver all honest men, and their

Gusman. Fine Oranges, sweet Lemmons, the best in Chequer-Ally near Bam-hill, of so strange a quality as never came from Sevil, Berbado's, or Virginia, for provoking lust and lechery; and abating the heat and fury thereof beyond any Apothecary's Bill or skill in London, if a Dose be taken morning and evening: if these *Doctoresse*s fail you on tryal of their skill, they shall cast your water for nothing. Their Customers are more common and numerous then their Turn-pikes, who ever has had a feeling of the Cause, or their Cases, (as Ben. Ross, Old Acteon, Fiery-facias, Capt. Whoraw, the Paper Merchant, the Crab-louse Doctor, with divers others, have) may be assured of the truth thereof, by reason of the many Fomentations are taken inwardly with Womb-perspective-Instruments made of ~~mans~~ flesh, which hath the same excellency and faculty in Ejections as Glisten-pipes; theres no Snow-water, no Glovers-water so efficacious, for theirs is the right Medicina mirabilis & universalis.

Magdel. Gusman, I would have you forbear these common Whores for a season, unless upon some remarkable passages and occasions; for the private Whores trade spoils that of ours, so that we have little or no trading among us; for there's one Margery S--- keeps

The Wandering whore.

C--- her Stallion, who was wont to be a good Customer, till she got him into her clutches, & inter clunes, well might his wife Bess turn whore for want of due benevolence, and other necessities, whilst he lay soaking and sopping of himself in the rayl of such a Tawny-Moor, whose luxury and lechery is as insatiate as the sea: He record her actions my self, and put her in my Black Remembrancer: Mrs Huzzly will tell you the very same. Then there's Mrs. Holl--- who were it not for beggery and poverty, would not be unprovided so much as she is, and be glad of other folks leavings. Then there's Mrs. Nettleton, Mrs. B--- and Mrs. C--- who must needs have their Friends in private, oh these Friends are brave fellows, when a Gold Ring with a Diamond in't, appears to clear their eye-sight! or such a silver Tanker as was given a Shop-keepers wife in Cheapside, to be tickled by a declining Gamester, whose wife has more need on't between her own sheets: oh! the sacred hunger of gold, it overcomes all things.

Gos. There's no reason but they should be brought upon the stage as well as others, and their private whoredoms discovered; for I have known several of them will hire men to do their drudgery and pay them according to their performances, who must not be omitted; these are seeming chaste and modest Virgins by day, but notorious whores by night: Quæ cum foris sunt nihil mundius, but what they commit in private, shall be published and proclaimed upon the house tops, but I blame their uxorious husbands, who suffer themselves to be rid and trode upon by their insolent wives, the pride of women evermore causing dotage in men: Did not Menelaus resolve to be the Executioner tioner of his wives miscarriages and mischiefs, when upon sight of her proportioned Limbs, tender and delicate Body, white Skin, rich Habilliments, effeminate and mimic Gestures, they charm'd his chaste eyes, and deafish ears, wherein is seen the impotency, weakness, and violence of Venereal Love, which so much overturneth reason in men.

Improbe amor quid non mortalia cogis ?

But see the fruits of this bad tree, from which could come no good, and commonly such as the Parents be, such are the children, the Crows egg is no better than the Crow her self: was not Helena after all her whoredoms, incest with her son in law, cruel murder of her other husband Deiphobus (after her flight to Polyxena Queen one of her old acquaintance) taken out of her Chamber by the Queens servants stark-naked, as she was bathing and washing her self, in abhorrency and detestation of such a Monster, and hang'd on a tree as an ignominious spectacle to all persons. Europa, she doted so much upon a Bull, that she got upon his back astride, to have her lechery satisfied. Pasiphae, unnatural and wicked in her thoughts and actions, lov'd a Bull, of whom he begot a Minotaure, being Proles biformis veneris monumenta nefanda. There are likewise Hermaphrodites, effeminate men, men given to much luxury, idleness, and wanton pleasures, and to that abominable sin of *Sotom*y, wherein they are both active and passive in it, whose vicious actions are onely to be whispered amongst us.

Magdalena. These are strange, if true stories, but let me have an account of some late transactions amongst our fellow-creatures now living; for I love not

The Wandring whore.

not to hear evil spoke of the deceased, it may be my case another day, for I am jealous I may stand in want of a good word, when I don't deserve it, the world has left worshipping such Saints as I am.

Gusman. I'll relate a very sad report how a Gentleman was serv'd in Blackfryers, as I ha' it from one Doctor St. — a Chymist, which was thus: It was his fortune to stay somewhat late in a Tavern neer adjoining amongst a Fovial Crew, in-somuch that he was much distemper'd in drink, and unfit to be his own Conductor, and in such a condition you know, Non & amor vinumque nihil moderabile suadent: A wandring whore watching her opportunity, renders her bodily assistance, and drew him into a dark passage, where he fell to feeling her with freedom, after which, she felt him likewise, and (by reason of his too-much drunkenness) had much a-do to cause an erection, yet did it, whereupon she drew out a sharped knife for that purpose, and holding of his P—close by the root, she cut it cleer and sheer off, leaving him his member and knife together, where he continued dancing and roaring till some company brought forth lights, where (by the extremity of his pain) he began to be recover'd, and to took up his P—putting it in his Cob, whilst the blood ran all about him, where being demanded the cause of his misfortune and wounding, he answered, and went into a Chyrurgians, who thrust a quill into his pissing place to prevent the stoppage of his Urine, as all the present ease to his grievous torments; the Gentleman was very desirous to have had it sow'd on again, but 'twas impossible, and within a day or two following he departed this life, having confessed that he

he had given a wench the running of the reins, and he believed she had returned him that for his pains, which was all that was ever discovered.

Magdalena. That was a whores trick indeed, what would become of us, if our Customers were so dismembred; we might all go hang our selves, and save the Hangman a labor, for 'tis but half an hours exercise.

Gastus. This that I shall tell you after, was not half so bad (for rather then I would loose that part, I would part with my right legg, my right hand and arm, nay thy right eye) of one Mrs. Marten, who seduc'd a Merchant shall be nameless, though not blameless, into her Chamber, whereunto belong'd a couple of thundring and ranting Heffers, who were to take the falling off her slippers as a certain watch-word that he was about to knock her, which as he was doing, off falls the slippers, up comes two slippery Ruffians (finding him upon her) with drawn Swords, Pistols cockt, as if they intended either to have Pistold him, or cut in pieces as small as flesh to the Pot, swearing, damning and sink them; thou Villain, what hast thou done to my wife? Thou rogue, How hast thou abus'd my sister? The sight and noise whereof dismayd him, and put him into a trembling fear, beseeching the preservation of his life and safety of his members, they threatned to cut off immediately, with the tender of about ten pounds in gold and silver, which they readily received, and layd by, telling him that would not serve their turn, if he intended to save his life, for fear whereof without any consideration, wherefore it was he gave them bond for a hundred pounds, and those Rogues accordingly received it.

Magdalena. That was handsome, he was right enough serv'd, but these our Catterpillars have not always a-like success, for there was one Gladwin a long mackerel back'd Hector, and one Mat. Robinson a tub of turds, and a pocky pugg-nasty, that would fain have trapp'd a shop-keeper in Corn-hil out of his mony, under pretence of her being with Child, which was childishly manag'd between them at the Dolphin in Birchin-lane; where after their drinking sack and claret, and eating of oysters by a good fire, the Rogue Gladwin conveys her into another room while he sends a Porter for his prey, under pretence of buying a considerable quantity of his commodities, which being discours'd betwixt each other, prov'd a very empty notion and business, which caus'd the parties hast to be gone and with-draw, on which he wav'd his former stories, and delivers a counterfeit Letter unto him, at which he seem'd not mov'd, but more urgent to be gone; in this juncture steps this Lady Errant into the room, pretending her self with child, which upon search and enquiry was, onely a cushion under her coats, which made her hastily depart, and leave her Hector a pledge for the reckoning, where he was forc't to unstrip and leave his Gold Ring behind him, swearing he would be reveng'd of his Mob for putting such a fob upon him.

Gusman. Su. Leming had worse success, for as she marcht from Smith-field with her maid at her A——a couple of tearing blades with feathers in their hats pickt her up, and led her to the Castle Tavern by St. Pulchers Church, where after a large reckoning was call'd in, they fairly slink avay, leaving her without a peny to pay their expences as well as her own, which so non-pluss'd her lady-ship, that she left her rings behind her, and was call'd W—to her face for her labor.

Magdalena. Thats she that says she has a fiddle in her Arse, which caused an old Lawyer to give her six pounds to sing and play the tune called Cuddles me Cuddly, and hath had as many P—in her C—then hairs upon it. But hast thou heard Gusman, how Mrs. Mason who came lately out of the Country thrives upon her Setting up a Vaulting-school in Horse-shoe-ally, where Humor Brooks (although never married, has a girl almost as tall as her self, and in a fair way to follow her mothers Occupation) and Mal. Savory, Thom. Players Mob, who was laid by Mrs. A—to have murder'd her Bastard, and to have an Hue and Cry after her for apprehension, however she escaped? and Mary Marten (alias half-a-dozen names) who gave in a List of her fellow creatures and old Comrades about Sea-coal-lane, Fleet-street and Thames-street? these Girls when they want trading at their other rendezvouzes, rant here, and dance Bob-in-join in their smocks, and often times naked, lying biggle-se-piggle-se night after night, with several persons, two at a time together, that whilst the one tyres, the other may be recruited; you may know H Brooks by her very scent and smell wherever you finde her, for her skin smells rammish, just like Aloes Succatrina, you may meet vvith her at D—vvith greazy Butchers and Cooks two or three times a day: And for Mal. Savory you may knowv her by her Cullinderface, resembling a turd full of Cherry-stones, a shoemakers punching-block, or an Islington-Cake vvith the pumpas pickt out, and an unsavory stinking breath to boot.

The VVandering whore.

Gusman. I wonder any one will meddle with these common jades and jakes, that like as wel, of a Broom man, a Tinker or Dung-bill raker as a Gentleman, but a T— is as good for such soles as a Pancake; for 'tis all a case to them, if they get but eighteen pence to buy a pair of gloves for their knocking, these are those poor lazy, idle whores who F— for necessity, not pleasure, and have scarce a raff of hair amongst them all to cover their Cunnies.

Magdalena. I know not how there should be any, where there is such perpetual and continued fying at their tench-holes, and where the hairs are as loose as the loose corns of Gun-powder upon a closed-pan, and be easily blown off: again their number being small, their Customers and Cullies unmerous (that should they snatch but hairs a piece from them, 'twere enough to make bare all their spots) they are ridden and stridden oftner then the variet Hackney jades in Coleman Street.

Gusman. If these rotten whores should be rubb'd all over their naked bodies, as was usual amongst the Romans in their bathes, til their knacks cry'd click agen, their very bones would drop a-sunder.

Magdalena. There was a noble Custom amongst those Romans that went forth to war, and whensoever they returned back, such as had wives sent them a months notice before hand, purposely to remove all causes of jealousy, which if once but rooted, 'tis like an Irish Trowse always close to the Rump.

Gusman. Come lets wave those stories, and think upon 'e how we shall raise monies to maintain our selves out of other mens ruines: Francion's the onely man, Julieta is bound to be great with childe.

Magdalena. Faith thou say'st true, 'tis an excellent way to catch young birds with chaff, acquaint Ju with it, here comes Francion.

Francion. How does my old Matron, Julieta, and Gusman?

Magdalena. They'l be here instantly: I have a matter of privacy to acquaint you with: Ju is with childe by you.

Francion. I hope not so, I would not be discredetted nor discovered for a thousand Pounds.

Magdalena. I can do any thing for mony, I'll have one Gladwin, or Colonel Jackson to Father it, provided the innocent childe and it's mother be taken care of.

— Francion. A pox of this lechery; well, Ultra posse non est esse, that which can't be cur'd, must be endared

Magdalena. Gusman, bid Julietta come in, hasten her instantly.

Julietta. My friend Francion, I have thought long to see you, hoping you will show your self a courteous Gentleman, in the time of my extremity, which calls for your assistance.

Francion. It shall be done, I'll give you order for the mony as soon as I see the charge:

Gusman. I have it here

Francion. Well, I'll draw a bill upon Mr C—the frigging Merchant in Waggoners ally, to pay the mony after three days sight hereof.

Omnes. Farewel deer Francion our best Friend.

Magdalena. Now Julietta the Plot holds; well, wee'll share our mony equally, and you shall lie in at your leisure, when we want mony wee'll study for such another Customer, and make an end of this fourth Days Action.

Magdalena. Silence in the Court, not a word amongst us three confederates, but what's spoken under the Rose, it is not fit to let Francion go off thus for 135 pounds; we'll make him marry thee Fulista, or make thee a good joyn-ture all thy life time; Hee'l believe all to be Gospel that we say, whilst we agree in one and the same Tale, he won't be long absent from us, therefore lets be fore-warn'd and fore-arm'd against his coming.

Gusman. The project will hit doubtless, we have such a grand earnest of his folly before-hand, 'tis but making him believe shee'l turn and be honest ever after, which if it were not so, you know Cuckolds have the best luck, for my part, I wish I were the richest Cuckold in Europe: Fu is not overworn, therefore not past turning, and a good two leav'd book left to look in still.

Magdalena. Ay, and a good fat A—too thou mayst lay thy lips on't, but 'tis customary here to receive mony with wives, (who like light gold will not pass without allowance,) but give mony for wenches, and that hee I do I warrant yee, wee'l make thee a President for others to imitate and follow: what must matrimony be made a matter of mony where there's a dainsy (unn)? I'll make him believe she hath as many suitors as there are days in the year, to make him more zealous of cozening his

Arrivals should such an Amazonian beauty, accompanied with such transcendent endowments both of body and mind, proportion'd with such equal parts, enrich'd with Silver and Golden habiliments, be parted with at an easy rate, so, as to make a slave her master, or a servant her Commander.

Julietta. My very teeth water at the Contrivance, if it falls right, expect I will reward you both out of his estate, 'tis but his believing that I will be honest after all my Lusts and Lechery, and that's all one to a fool; for what the eye sees not the heart rues not, I shall not be the first whore that has turn'd honest, in the flower of her age, 'tis but your getting another to supply the place during my absence, for common Jades (such as Mal. Savory, Honor Brooks, and Nan. Jones,) are numerous enough, and will sit with their leggs spread over the sides of a chair with their petticoates and smocks in their mouths, whilst their Comrades run a tilt at their touch holes in that posture, paying twelve pence a time for holing; and for his part and mine we have taken a sure course to try each others abilities before-hand; we shall not fear commencing of Law-suites for want of due benevolence, or for being unpenetrable, yet Ile have him sign and seal these following Articles for an Assurance of his future Affections, viz.

Inprimis, That I Monsieur Francion do freely, and willingly settle 300 l. per annum upon Julietta, for and during her life time.

Item, That I will allow her a Coach and four Horses; with Attendants answerable.

Item, That I wont be jealous of any man's coming, or visiting her, of what Quality, Rank or Condition whatsoever.

Item,

Item, That I will allow her a Lusty Black, to hold up her train whilst she walks from room to room.

Item, That she shall have free liberty to make choice of her own Chamber-maids, and others belonging to the family, and chuse a-new every month, if they do not keep close their chaps, what ever they do with their legs.

Gusman, They are singular ways to provide horns for his head, but I would not wish you to stand upon such subtilties, if he will but marry thee Ja, for if he should deny to let thee have thy will and pleasure afterwards, tis but taking a touch or two with a Counsellor, (who frequently takes his fees that way, if his Clients be handsom;) and hee'l sue him for Alimony, and make him maintain thee out of his Estate in spite of his teeth, and then play the whore under his nose as many brave lasses have done before thee, and he shall not help himself, whereof we have a thousand Precedents of women running from their husbands, and chusing other Stallions for their Guardians; as appears by a late Treatise entitled the Trapp n, written by Mr. Vernon in the case of Goodwin the Dyer, &c.

Fulietta. Thou hast done well to satisfy me so clearly, Ile follow the example of yong Starky the Hofiers wife, who receiving some seeming abuses from her husband, (when the major part of her Portion grew due) ran away from him, carrying all his bonds, bills, Gold watch, Jewels, Rings, &c. suing him for maintenance, as he found by woful experience, and the leaving off of his trade, under the pretence of his having the Poss.

Gus. I shall tell thee of another way besides that, if thou

thou hast a mind to make him run mad ; take a hand-som Gentleman usher to satisfy thy Luxury, and please thy lechery, into the house , love and lie with him and hate thy husband, lie naked in the bed rather then have thy smock sow d to his shirt, when thou wouldst under prerence of rising to piss, or going to a cloie stool, go to bed with thy Gentleman-usher, and if he be angry, call him rogue, raskal, and jealous Cuckolds, and if that fayls comb his head with a joint stool, or break his pate with a Bed-staff, and it will cool his courage quickly.

Magaalena. Thou'rt a prime Tutor indeed , if thou hadst but a whore to match thee , for to read a Lecture in a two-leav'd book, thou hast evermore had a natural propensity to, as to venery, and knowst how to ride post to the Devils Mansions, for I dare swear there's scarce a rule in all Arcelines Postures, but thou hast it ad unguem, readier then thy Pater Noster, for thy zeal, (like Harry Martins with the Beggar Wench, Thom. Scots with the Bonclase-wench of Wickham, and Hugh Peters when the Buisber cudgel'd the 5 pounds out of his Carkas for lying too neer his Brindle) is lockt up in a Down-diddle more then honesty, yet I like thy merry devices.

Gusman. Every man to his trade, as the Rat-trap-maker said to the Parson, be sure I have not my name Gusman, an old beaten soldier for nothing : I have told, Fu, a woman will have her will, and you are not to seek in that point, Im'e sure on't.

Magda'ena. Thou say'st very true , good miss will jump togesher, as thou didst with my Cousin , but methinks we are grown huge modest in our debates bewixt each other, but I wonder Francion carries all this while, while, I wish we had some pleasant tale, told to drive away the tedious night.

Gusman. Rather then want, I would invent a story, but this I shall tell you stands upon record, is very true, and was try'd at Salisbury Assizes of a bouncing Girl, who was courted by a neighbor whom she did not fancy: this yong Enamorado out of spight, reports she had no C— and scarce a pissing place; a second suitor engages her affections, but upon noise of the rumor relinquishes her; a Crafty Lawyer (as most of that function are) tells her he would sue this flaunderer in her behalf, and demand nothing till Recovery, to which she assented, the party being arrested the suit was shortly brought to tryal, where a Jury of women were summoned (not men) to search her, who upon demand from the Judge, what they had to say in the business, one of the eldest Matrons answer'd that she had a good thing (meaning the maid, not her self,) the Judge told her that was not enough to satisfy the Jury, she must speak broader and plainer? Why, then (quoth she) she hath a very good commodity: I tell thee again woman thou must speak plain; why, then if I list I will, and will swear it again and again, before your Worship and the Jury, she hath a C— large enough for the beggest mans P— in the Parish, at which they all laughed, and the Jury (for that she was a handsome wench) fined her adversary threescore pounds damage which was accordingly paid the Plaintiff.

Fulietta. That was honestly done of them, and is neer a kin to a passage I have heard of a fellow who helping a Gentlewoman on Horse-back, slipp't his hand under her belly and tore a tuft of hair off her Commodity, waring it in a Bauvide in his hat; which her husband hearing of, su'd him for it, and it cost him forty pounds for his frolick.
Commodity

Magdalena. Well I am bound to tell a Tale or let a fart, therefore give ear to this following, concerning a Gentleman who had continu'd with a great deal of eagerness a suitor to a Gentlewoman, whose incivilities could not retract him, nor persuasions withdraw him, at length when nothing would serve his turn, she uncover'd her breast naked, ranckled, rotted and corrupted, which he espying took leave of her, and never set eye on her after.

Gusman. I believe neither of you two would have uncover'd your inhrmities, in such a Case, but for my part I conceive it lawful for men and women, to go naked, and were it customary as in preceding times, your enticing habits, perfum'd carkasses, and stately gestures would be less in request, both with your selves and other's, and fewer provocations to lust and Lechery, which is seldom occasion'd by a brown skin, a crook'd back or legs, or poor habit, but often by holand smocks, silk stockings, rich gowns and petticoats, with other costly garments, which cover your greatest foulness and deformities: I have known many women, taken out of (their better part) their cases would have been a loathing to themselves and others, who otherwise were doted upon in their bravery.

Julietta. Should you men, see all our actions in a true, (and not a 'counterfeit') glass, we should be the most dispis'd wretches in the world, but we can order you in that point, as most of your Citizens Wives do their Coxcombs, who if they won't let them have their their desires and pride to boot, 'tis but dissembling a certain or quotidian ague, a burning fever, or some other distemper, and their lying in shall cost them more money in Doctors visits, Apothecaries Bills, (who now and then cornute them into the bargain) Caudles, Positions, and Cock-broths; then if they had granted their desires at first.

Gusman. I am no stranger to those tricks, for if I were, I should have a better opinion of your sex, then they have deserved (the number of wicked women, being numberless) amongst which number are Mr. Savage in whitecross-street, who broke her husbands head with a marrow-bone, and had like to have kill'd him with it, Mrs. Barron a fidlers wife, who us'd to comb her husbands head with a base viol, into which his head was struck as if he had been in the tillory, or got a ruff about his neck, Mrs. Hewson at the further end of White-chappel, a tearing Ranter, who is never quiet but when Clark the Hatband-maker in Houndsditch, is at work in her Saw-pit, and Mrs. Blakefly, who notwithstanding her husbands lawful and due correction, will tempt, Jack Hunt the Butcher in White-chappel, to make her husband a Cuckold: well if you think to have Francion I hear, and see coming In, you must be hve your self with more discretion, as a Chauudlers wife in Ab church lane, said her husband did her.

Julietta. Prithee Gusman keep thy breath to cool thy pottage, but stick close to us in our new found Plais; Monsieur Francion, truly devoted of your servants salutes you, and rejoyces at your appearance, why so long absent from her so deerly loves you, why at such a distance from her whose life and fortunes lie and

truckle at your foot-stood, whose presence is my life and absence death.

Francion. Thy company's no less to me my sweetheart, my deer, and my beloved one, of whom I le say:

*In twining armes let me my deer conceal
And from thy rosy kpps long kisses steal
Let me thy complete parts touch without light,
And with sweet joyes protract the pleasing night,
In thy sweet armes hugg thou my banes and face
Let me in my kind bosom thee embrace,
'Tis not for gold that Lovers do complain They'r rich enough if they theyr Ladies gain.*

Magdalena. That you have gain'd Julietta is no news, I would advise you Sir to marry her, you may meet with a slut, and that's worse then a whore, but she hath vow'd chastity for the future.

Gusman. I can assure that to be true, that she's resolved to turn if you I marry her.

Francion. I thought I had remov'd all scrup'les in that point, is the motion of your mentioning Julietta.

Julietta. Truly sir, I am very weary of this life, and would gladly turn, would you let me be devoted wholly to your service.

Francion. 'Tis no sleight Question to answer, much more to execute, so that you must pardon me in that Point.

Magdalena. Why then you must allow her a yearly revenue to maintain her for your self, and keep her in her quondam Equipage and gallantry.

Gusman. There's all the reason in the world for't, what what would not some men give for a dainty bit in a corner. the forbidden fruit is sweetest.

Francion. Well what's your demands, what will maintain her from the scourge of necessity, come speak out or let Magdalena do't for you, but marry I may not.

Magdalena. Sixty Pounds a year is as little as can be to maintain her honesty and bravery.

Francin. Well, provided she layes no claim's to marriage with me, I'll settle 50 Pounds per Annum Durante vita.

Magdalena. Come she shall do't, Ile be her Advocate, fill us some wine to seal the bargain.

Joh. Content till our next days meeting.
